

Is It Deposit-Bearing?

Please take note of the following beverage products for which we receive many inquiries.

	 Califia Farms Almond Beverage You do not see the words “Fortified” anywhere, which means it is not fortified. All unfortified plant-based beverages have a deposit since April 1, 2020.	 Rice Dream Rice Beverage Plant-based beverages like this one which are labelled as “Fortified” AND ALSO have the “Not a source of protein” warning on their label are deposit-bearing since April 1, 2020.	 Silk Coconut Beverage Plant-based beverages like this one which are labelled as “Fortified” AND ALSO have the “Not a source of protein” warning on their label are deposit-bearing since April 1, 2020.
	 Natura Soy Beverage Natura Soy Beverage is labelled as “Fortified” and considered a source of protein (there is no “Not a source of protein” warning on the label, which means there is protein in the beverage). Excluded from the Beverage Containers Program. No deposit.	 So Nice Organic Soy Beverage So Nice Organic Soy Beverage is labelled as “Fortified” and considered a source of protein (there is no “Not a source of protein” warning on the label, which means there is protein in the beverage). Excluded from the Beverage Containers Program. No deposit.	 Silk Soy Beverage - Chocolate Silk Soy Beverage (Chocolate) is labelled as “Fortified” and considered a source of protein (there is no “Not a source of protein” warning on the label, which means there is protein in the beverage). Excluded from the Beverage Containers Program. No deposit.